

Canine Vision Canada

Brenda has been asserting her independence since the tender age of eight, when she first began to experience some loss of vision. Fiercely determined to show the world her disability would not be disabling, Brenda set out to live an active and independent life that has helped her become a leading advocate for Canadians living with disabilities.

Now a single mom of two active teenagers, Brenda was determined to find a solution that would help her continue to live her life with a freedom and independence.

BJ, her Canine Vision Dog Guide, helps Brenda navigate through streets, cars, pedestrians, stairs, obstacles and curbs. The relationship between a Dog Guide and its handler is an important one, and according to Brenda, she and BJ are a perfect match.

“I was given the opportunity to train with a few different Dog Guides to determine which one suited me best. When BJ came along, we clicked!”
